

Position: Instructional Designer/Curriculum Development Specialist

Work with manager and project team to design and develop training content in face to face, online and in hybrid learning environments.

Qualifications:

- Education: Master's degree in relevant area of Education from an accredited college or university.
- Exceptional design and writing skills.
- Minimum of five years of experience in instructional design/curriculum development and education is required.
- Demonstrated successful application of instructional systems design (ISD) with an emphasis on assessment and evaluation for learning.
- Flexibility and the ability to solicit input and with others.
- Skills in design and develop adult learning opportunities for both face to face, online, and in hybrid learning environments. This includes developing both instructional materials like participant guides, facilitator's guides/instructor's manuals, and multi-media materials in support of training for courses, workshops, self-paced and/or instructor lead online training.

Salary/Rates based on experience. This position is based in Washington, DC.

To apply, please send your CV and Cover Letter to Info@BCSynergies.com. State if you are seeking a consultancy position or an employee position.